PERSONAL STATEMENT

Digital analytics is an important source of information to every company which has a digital environment, generates online profits, and leads.

Digital analytics is a process of measuring, gathering, analyzing and reporting the performance of your website or application. Web statistics give you insight into the origin, behavior and the profile of your website visitors. Based on this information you can optimize the content of your digital environment. On top of that you can also improve your digital strategy (per target audience or campaign) and use your budget more effective and efficient. I am ready to help you with the entire process, from setting it up to optimizing your website.
